Stopgap Settlement On Berlin Possible

... West Considers Negotiations At Debate's End

Geneva (AP)—Western diplomats said Sunday night they may have to negotiate a separate stopgap Berlin settlement with Russia after full debate of rival East-West German peace plans.

Word of the new western position came after an American delegation spokeman called for thoroughgoing discussion in the Big Four foreign ministers meeting of the West's package plan. This envisages a phased program toward settlement of the future of Berlin and Germany and the buildup of a European security system.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding told newsmen:

"We are going into the next few days of the conference with the hope and expectation of getting into detailed discussion of the western proposal."

Take It For Granted

"We also take it for granted that the Russians want us to do the same thing with their draft peace treaty."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko offered Friday a 5-month-old Soviet draft peace pact as the basis of German settlement. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has snubbed the package approach, but said some parts—not specified—of the package are worth talking about.

As things stand now the West has allowed for an interim status to be negotiated for Berlin—but only as part of a general package settlement of the over-all

German and European security problems.

But American and British diplomats reported privately Sunday night that the western foreign ministers see no definite settlement of the German problem on the basis either of the western or Soviet proposals.

Therefore, they have decided to invoke a decision secretly reached in Paris in April by the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany, to seek some sort of separate stopgap Berlin settlement with the Russians.

Any such interim arrangement would be made to hinge on the ultimate conclusion of a wider agreement reuniting Germany. And within that eventual unification accord Berlin could be restored to its proper place as the capital city of Germany.

Postmasters Here Talk Fast Delivery Problem

By Charles Beal

Problems of mail handling and delivery were the principal discussion topics at the 23rd annual convention of the Nebraska Chapter of the National Association of Postmasters was launched at the Cornhusker.

Heading the list of activities Monday is an address by J. M. McKibbin, Assistant Postmaster General, Bureau of Operations, Washington, D.C.

His address will follow seminars concerning post office administration problems, a noon luncheon honoring county and district directors and guests, and a work shop summarizing the seminars, with Association president Roger M. Closs of Wymore presiding, and election of officers for 1959.

Other officers for 1958 are vice presidents Charles Dickey of Columbus and Mrs. Augusta Z. Bowen of Dunning and Secretary-Treasurer Al Porr of Pawnee City.

More Efficiency

Frank Barr, Regional Operations Director of Wichita, Kan., told the postmasters Sunday that increasing emphasis must be put on efficient transportation schedules for transferring mail from post offices to trains and other carriers.

Barr is director of Region 15 of the Post Office Department with headquarters at Wichita, Kans. The region includes Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Uniformity Sought

John Snyder, national vice president from Oconomowoc, Wis., and candidate for presidency in the national election of the Association at Washington, D.C., in October, said the group was interested in promoting Congressional legislation calling for uniform weight and dimension regulations in parcel post mailings.

"We feel that the present law regarding parcel post discriminates against larger offices."

George A. Carpenter, postal inspector in charge of region 15, gave a "do's and don'ts" address to the assembled postmasters.

Search For New Warden Begins Soon

The Board of Control is expected to begin searching this week for a new warden to replace Joseph Bovey, who resigned Friday.

In a letter to Mrs. Catherine Martin, chairman, Gov. Ralph Brooks expressed a desire to see a warden selected "by reason of his qualifications, as (1) an administrator and (2), as a criminologist."

"I think that the time has come in a position like this one to depart entirely from the so-called spoils system," the governor's letter said.

The letter added that a proposal to select a trained criminologist and administrator would probably entail an increase in expenditure for the office.

"I wish you the utmost success in your pursuit of a qualified warden," the letter concluded.

Kansas Bleachers Fold—150 Injured

Section Held 500 Watching Mayetta Rodeo

23 ARE HOSPITALIZED

Mayetta, Kan. (AP)—Bleachers holding an estimated 500 spectators collapsed at a rodeo here Sunday, and at least 150 persons were injured, some seriously.

Witnesses said the bleachers "folded up like an accordion" as people got to their feet to leave following completion of the rodeo performance, the last in a 4-day series.

"There was a lot of screaming and shouting," one witness said.

Piled In A Heap

"Some of the people clung to girders but most of them piled up into just a big heap. It took several minutes to get them unpiled."

The injured were rushed to hospitals at Topeka, the state capital, 20 miles south; Holton, 9 miles north; and Lawrence, 50 miles southeast.

Mayetta, population about 230, has no hospital.

It was the second bleacher accident at the rodeo in two years. In 1957 a section of bleachers started to give way but did not actually collapse.

New Seats

The bleachers which buckled Sunday had been newly installed for this year's rodeo.

They were formed of wooden seats on a metal frame. The unit was about 75 feet long and had 10 rows of seats.

"There was a pop and a bang, and it collapsed," said C. W. Lawson of Perry, Kan., who was sitting on the top row, about 16 feet above ground.

"There was no warning it was going to give way," he said. Lawson escaped injury.

A 4 or 5 months old baby was seen flying through the air. It was caught by people on the ground and apparently was not hurt.

Forbes Air Force Base, Topeka, sent a doctor, a medical technician and 3 attendants to the scene. Injured were transported to hospitals in ambulances from Holton, Topeka and Lawrence.

Topeka Treated 105

Topeka hospitals treated and released 105 of the injured and admitted 16.

At Holton, 20 were treated and released 7.

A Lawrence hospital treated and released 2.

The extent of the injuries of the 23 who were hospitalized was not known immediately.

GREENHOUSE EVENT STARS BIG HIBISCUS

A record crowd of more than 2,000 Sunday attended the annual open house of the Antelope Park Greenhouse.

According to James Ager, City Park Dept. director.

Of unusual interest was a Tropical Hibiscus plant in full bloom. According to Ager, the plant is unusually large and comes in a variety of colors.

Introduced last Friday, the resolution may be debated Monday.

Bingo, Speeder Bills Up

Ag Research Levy Hearing Also Set

By Betty Person

Public hearings on measures dealing with bingo, stiffened penalties for violating speed laws, and an additional one-tenth mill levy earmarked for agricultural research are slated during the Legislature's 20th week opening Monday.

The Government Committee will hear testimony Monday afternoon on LB719, the substitute bingo bill offered by Gov. Ralph Brooks following his veto of the original bingo bill LB86.

Members of the Judiciary Committee will hear testimony Monday afternoon on LB718, a bill offered by the governor to impose sharp penalties on speed law violators.

Wednesday the Revenue Committee will hear testimony on LB722, introduced by the Agriculture Committee, which proposes a one-tenth mill levy for research into new uses of agricultural products.

Floor Debates Set

Initial floor debate on bills ranging from making the Highway Advisory Commission an executive agency (LB-338) to transferring jurisdiction of the School for the Blind from the Board of Control to the Department of Education (LB281) will highlight floor activities on general file bills.

NU Resolution

A bitter floor fight is expected to result from discussion on a resolution asking the Legislature to record its formal disapproval of Sen. Jack Romans' criticisms of the University of Nebraska's hiring practices at the Law College.

Sens. J. W. Burbach of Crofton, Vosoba and Norman Otto of Kearney have introduced the resolution which also calls for reaffirmation of faith in the University's Board of Regents and Chancellor Clifford Hardin.

Introduced last Friday, the resolution may be debated Monday.

Injured spectators are made comfortable awaiting ambulances.

Two Die In Car Crash

... Near McCook

Lincoln Star Special

McCook—Two Nebraskans were killed near here late Sunday afternoon in a head-on auto crash, the Safety Patrol reported.

Dead were Perry O. Porter, 60, of McCook, and Jaye D. Folkers, 69, of Maywood.

The fatal mishap involved cars driven by Porter and E. E. Graves of McCook, the Patrol reported. It occurred about 17 miles north of McCook on U.S. 83.

Boy Scout Budget Set At $84,000

A tentative budget of $84,000 was approved by the Cornhusker Council of the Boy Scouts of America at its yearly planning session Sunday.

Actual amount of the budget will be determined by Community Chest allocations and independent fund raising, officials said. The 1959 budget is $72,000.

The Cornhusker Council is composed of 16 southeastern Nebraska counties. Some 65 communities were represented at the Sunday meeting.

The council approved Oct. 24 as the date for a train trip from Lincoln to Brownville. Last year, 3,000 scouts made the trip, officials said.

The 50th anniversary of scouting will be observed in 1960 with "town jamborees," or camp outings.

Deckard grabbed Wetzel at the home of the young truck driver's fiancee, 18-year-old Wellston.

Temperatures ranged into the 70s in the west Sunday, with Chadron recording the state high of 80.

Cooler readings prevailed, however, in the east. Lincoln charted a Sunday high of 69 following an overnight low of 54.

Stations reporting rainfall Sunday were North Platte with .25 inches, Imperial with .12 and Scottsbluff, Sidney and Valentine, a trace.

Boyles Takes Office In Ceremonies Today

Mayor-elect Bartlett E. Boyles and three City Council members will be sworn into office Monday afternoon by City Clerk Theo H. Berg, who is retiring after 40 years of public service.

The Council members, who will have the distinction of being the last to be sworn in by the veteran clerk, are Mrs. Helen G. Boosalis, the third woman ever to serve, and Dell Tyrrell and Kenneth Lewis, re-elected incumbents.

The ceremonies will follow the regular meeting and adjournment of the old Council. Going off are Mayor Bennett S. Martin and Councilman Pat Ash.

The first order of business of the new Council will be the election of a first vice president and a second vice president. The latter is a new of-

1 Dead, 3 Wounded In St. Louis Gunfight

... Cops Walk In On Holdup

St. Louis (AP)—Two detectives interrupted a drug store holdup Sunday and fought a bloody gun duel with two bandits. One gunman was slain. The other—wounded as were both officers—fled with a hostage he released shortly before police flushed him from a hideout.

Still defiant, 32-year-old Ivan L. Deckard of Heltonville, Ind., bragged to arresting officers:

"I'm not yellow, I just ran out of ammunition."

The 6-foot-3 Deckard, sought since staging a human fly escape from the federal building here April 13, was bleeding from an arm wound when police cornered him in an attic about two hours later and 5 miles away.

Killed by a bullet in the heart at the scene of the holdup in suburban University City was 34-year-old Herbert John Lorts, an ex-convict.

Wounded in the gun fight in Irwin's Drug Store were detectives Raymond Bruno, 52, and Stanley Topper, 36.

Called Girl Friend

Ironically, Bruce Zuckerman, 27-year-old son of drug store owner Irwin Zuckerman, was talking to his girl friend from a phone booth when the bandits barged in.

"Call the police," young Zuckerman told her, "I must hang up."

The detectives, who arrived moments later, were taken to county hospital. Their conditions were described as satisfactory.

The hostage, unharmed but jittery after his experience with Deckard, was 23-year-old Richard Wetzel of suburban Wellston.

Quizzed By FBI In Kidnap Of Negro, Man Has Stroke

... Brothers Say He Was Watched Night And Day

Poplarville, Miss. (AP) — Arthur E. Smith, 32-year-old McNeill stump hauler and tractor driver, was hospitalized with a cerebral hemorrhage a few hours after FBI agents questioned him intensively about the April 25 lynching of Negro M. C. Parker.

FBI Agent-In-Charge Ralph W. Bachman declined comment. There was no comment either on reports that agents were about to arrest seven men in connection with the lynching.

Because of the reports news reporters again converged upon this small saw-mill town in southeast Mississippi.

Smith's physician told newsmen Sunday he had ordered Smith hospitalized about 3 hours after Smith suffered the attack.

Extreme Nervousness'

The cerebral hemorrhage was described as being "caused by high blood pressure brought on by extreme nervousness and tension." The doctor added that intensive questioning could have been a factor.

Smith's condition was described as undetermined. A sign on his hospital room door barred everyone but his wife.

Mrs. Smith, distraught over her husband's condition, declined to talk with newsmen. But Smith's two brothers talked freely.

Cecil Smith, a brother who lives a half mile from Arthur and for whom Arthur works, said FBI agents took Arthur from the family home about 11 p.m. May 10, questioned him in Bogalusa, La., nearby, and returned Smith about 6 a.m. May 11.

24-Hour Watch

For the next 5 days, the brother said, agents maintained a round-the-clock watch on Arthur from a car parked on a dirt road that ends at the Smith family home just north of McNeil.

Twice additionally during the week agents questioned Arthur Smith, and one time they quizzed Cecil Smith.

The last questioning was on Saturday morning. FBI agents returned Arthur to his home about mid-afternoon. A short while later, relatives said, Arthur suffered the attack and a doctor was called.

Incoherent

The doctor said Arthur was unable to speak coherently but nodded or shook his head to indicate he was aware of his surroundings.

FBI agents supposedly questioned Smith concerning his whereabouts at the time a band of hooded men broke into the Pearl River County jail at Poplarville and dragged the screaming Parker from his third floor cell into a waiting car and death in Pearl River.

Junior Workers Help Make State 4-H Camp A Reality

... Home Ec Club Aids By Bake Sale

Nebraska 4-H club members are counting the days when the State 4-H Club Camp being built near Halsey will be ready for their use—and Lancaster County's Junior Workers are no exception.

The Junior Workers—a 6-member home economics club, all girls now—has been doing a little promoting on their own to help raise funds to fill the needs for the camp's construction. They held a bake sale.

Mrs. R. A. Pugsley of Lincoln, club leader, said baking and bake sales are not new to this club, which was organized 11 years ago. Each year, for the past 8 years, the Junior Workers have planned and carried out a community service project.

Projects

Among the projects were: Purchase of equipment to be used in the rehabilitation of crippled children (Polio victims).

Helped the polio immunization program.

Cash contributions to worthy causes.

Since its beginning in 1948, the club has had over 70 girls and 5 boys, carrying 22 projects in cooking, sewing, homemaking and health. They

Center Bank Burglar Gets 5-Year Term

Curtis Guy Barnes, 50, of Lincoln was sentenced to 5 years imprisonment by the U.S. District Court for the Jan. 10 burglary of the Center State Bank at Center, Neb.

Barnes had pleaded no contest before Judge Robert Van Pelt to a federal count of entering the bank with intent to steal and carry away money.

A second count charging Barnes with burglary was dismissed by Asst. U.S. Atty. William Morrow.

Barnes, who reportedly has spent 22 of the past 26 years in penal institutions in 5 states, was released in 1958 from the Nebraska Penitentiary after serving a term for possession of burglary tools.

Other numbers were: "Symphony in D Minor," by Franck; "Nocture from 'A Midsummer Night's Dream,'" Mendelssohn; "Prelude to Act III from 'Lohengrin'" by Wagner; "Phedre Overture," by Massenet, and "South Pacific (Symphonic Scenaria)" by Rogers, arranged by Robert Russell Bennett.

Youth Group Has Concert

About 400 attended the annual concert of the Lincoln Youth Symphony Orchestra Sunday afternoon, according to conductor Bernard Nevin, co-ordinator of instrumental music for the Lincoln public schools.

The orchestra, composed of 85 Lincoln junior and senior high students, played six selections. Included was "Kol Nidri, Op. 47, for Cello and Orchestra," by Bruch, which featured as soloist Martha Dennison, Southeast High cellist.

Other numbers were: "Symphony in D Minor," by Franck; "Nocture from 'A Midsummer Night's Dream,'" Mendelssohn; "Prelude to Act III from 'Lohengrin'" by Wagner; "Phedre Overture," by Massenet, and "South Pacific (Symphonic Scenaria)" by Rogers, arranged by Robert Russell Bennett.

Nigerian Chief Judge, Wife Surprised At Extent Of U.S. Racial Difficulties

By Sam Hall

"The United States racial problem is more serious than we expected."

This was the view expressed Sunday night by Sir Adetokunbo Ademola, Chief Justice of Nigeria, and Lady Ademola, who are visiting Lincoln as part of a tour of the United States and Canada.

The English-educated chief justice said that the Little Rock incident greatly disturbed the people of Nigeria. This and other occurrences, he felt, didn't damage United States-Nigerian relations, because "the people are told that they occur only in a certain part of the country."

"The federal government and courts here are doing much to alleviate the problems, however," he said.

There is no racial problem at all in Nigeria, about 1/4 the size of the U.S., according to Lady Ademola. "There are no white settlers in the country," she said. Nigeria has a population of approximately 35 million people.

The Nigerian court system is not modeled after that of the United States, according to Sir Ademola, although similar in some respects.

"The federal supreme court of Nigeria, which is a final court of appeal, is also a court on constitutional matters much like the U.S. Supreme Court," he said. "Our court serves as a check on the legislative and executive bodies of government," he added.

Oxford And Cambridge

Sir Ademola, here on a study of U.S. and Canadian courts, received his education at Cambridge University. Lady Ademola, a former teacher, is studying women's organizations and the country's educational and social welfare systems. She was educated at Oxford University.

Monday Sir Ademola will address the Legislature and a convocation at Union College, then be the guest of Nebraska

Supreme Court judges at a noon luncheon. Tuesday he will be a guest of the Rotary Club.

From here the chief justice and his wife will go to San Francisco and then to Canada, where he will take part in a judicial conference in Vancouver, B.C. They have been in the U.S. 16 days.

The couple were Sunday night guests of Nebraska Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert G. Simmons and Mrs. Simmons. Also present were Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Dwight Burney, Sen. and Mrs. Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City, Sen. and Mrs. Peter Claussen of Leigh and Dean and Mrs. W. V. Lambert of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

Right-Of-Way Problem Holds Up Sewer Work

No engineering recommendation on the construction bids for the proposed $802,000 Salt Creek-Beal's Slough sanitary interceptor sewer will go Monday to the City Council.

City Engineer Carl Fisher said Sunday that the recommendation is being held up because of "a little difficulty with the right-of-way."

However, Fisher declined to discuss the exact nature of the problem.

It is believed that one mile of the 2.5-mile sewer extension which is to be laid along the Burlington Railroad right-of-way is involved.

Asked if there was any change in the city engineering department's position on the alternate bids, Fisher said, "We're still ready to recommend acceptance of the low bid."

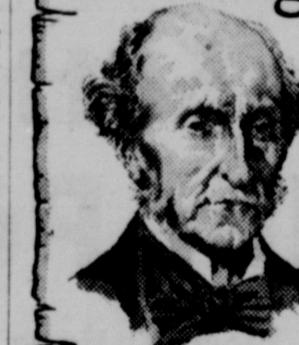

Alternate bids on asphalt-coated, corrugated steel pipe and on reinforced concrete pipe were received last Wednesday.

Roberts Construction Co., Lincoln, was apparent low bidder at $649,833.00 using the asphalt-coated steel pipe. It was $70,633 below the lowest bid using reinforced concrete pipe and $152,167 below the engineer's estimate for the project.

The Rev. Verne Spindell, pastor of the church, offered the prayer of dedication and tribute to Mrs. Graham.

'Magic Carpet' In Sky May Be Near Reality

Waltham, Mass. (AP) — A "magic carpet" in the sky may be just around the scientific corner.

Raytheon Company Sunday announced development of a "weightless fuel" utilizing high frequency radio waves.

The method would transmit substantial amounts of power through the atmosphere without wires.

Conventional radio transmits power without wires, but it is a negligible amount and it has to be built up at the receiving end using additional power.

By using microwaves the power can be beamed like a searchlight, instead of being dissipated in all directions as with conventional radio waves, raytheon scientists point out.

The sky station would be a 100-foot saucer designed to catch the rays beamed from the earth far below.

Raytheon says the sky platforms moved from the field of fiction to fact when they developed a high-power, microwave transmitter to line-of-sight transmission.

Conventional radio transmits power without wires, but it is a negligible amount and it has to be built up at

The most fish caught at the kids' fishing day at Oak Creek Park were landed by Eugene Webb, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Webb, 1220 Oak. Eugene pulled in 15 fish in the one-hour contest.

Record 1,204 Compete In Fishing

The largest crowd in the 19-year history of the Nebraska Better Fishing Assn.'s kids' fishing day, 1,204, dropped hooks Sunday at Oak Creek Park.

One hour later Ronald Heath 14, had pulled in the largest fish of the day, a 25-inch carp, and Eugene Webb, 14, had hauled in 15 bullheads for the biggest catch.

Mel Steen, state game commissioner; Mary Ellen Keating, president of the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce; and Jean Shankland, head of the Oak Lake project, spoke at the start of the contests.

Some 80-100 prizes, mostly rods and reels, were given winners in all divisions, said Fern Mosier, secretary-treasurer of the NBFA.

Earlier tubes were not powerful enough and would have required too much heavy equipment.

Vast Possibilities

The sky station has vast military and civilian possibilities, raytheon scientists pointed out. Stations located over Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and Scotland could relay television programs above the curvature of the earth between Europe and the United States.

Television is generally limited to line-of-sight transmission.

sion and hence has limited range without ground cables.

The sky stations would hover in a fixed position using helicopter-type rotary wings.

The microwave energy beamed from the earth stations would be collected by the saucer antenna and transformed into heat energy for conversion into mechanical power.

Raytheon scientists say gas turbine helicopters already in service utilize heat engines similar in concept to those they plan for a sky station.

Useful Nuisance

The sky platform's engines would use what electronic scientists have always considered a nuisance.

In conventional microwave communication heat is a wasteful and useless factor and scientists try to keep it to a minimum. For a sky platform, the more heat the more propulsion available.

Raytheon pioneered research on microwave tubes 20 years ago. They are credited with breaking a wartime radar bottleneck with mass productions of magnetrons, the heart of wartime radar systems.

Raytheon says the Air Force has shown strong interest in the sky station idea and is studying problems and possible applications with Raytheon scientists.

Early Contracts To Get Priority On Pollution Funds

Applications indicating the earliest contract letting date will be given first priority for federal water pollution abatement funds at the next meeting of the State Water Pollution Control Council.

The council has set July 15 as the cut-off date for receiving applications for the $686,650 expected for the state in federal pollution abatement funds.

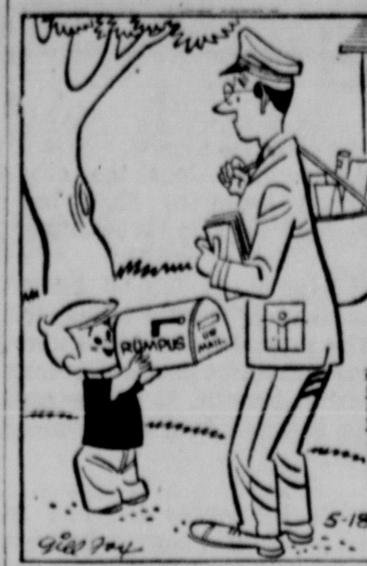

This is the amount budgeted for Nebraska in latest hearings. Congress has not enacted the appropriation but the council is planning on the assumption that this is the amount which will be allocated to the state.

Dr. Salk To Lecture At Italian Institute

Rome (AP) — Dr. Jonas E. Salk, American discoverer of the first polio vaccine, arrived here by plane from Tel Aviv to deliver a lecture at the Italian State Superior Health Institute.

Italy decided recently to adopt the Salk vaccine and make it available free to children whose parents ask that they be inoculated. The decision was taken after a wave of new polio cases last summer, mainly in southern Italian areas.

Big Jobs Ahead

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The capital improvements program studied by the City Planning Commission is all the information one needs to conclude that there are busy days ahead for Lincoln. Actually, the program for 1959-60 appeared to be somewhat conservative in view of past city departmental requests but it may be possible that a short breathing spell is in order.

The total program from all city departments was $3,750,000. More than one-third of this total was composed of water department programs which do not involve tax money. A great deal of the rest of the program involves other non-tax-supported plans such as sanitary sewers and street improvements. It all boils down to an estimated $350,000 in tax funds as compared to some $380,000 for the capital expenditures out of tax funds last year. Undoubtedly having something to do with this is the fact that the estimates on all plans were hastily prepared.

The requirement for submission of capital improvements to the commission is a part of the new city charter. There was little time to draw up very extensive plans between the adoption of the charter and the deadline for submission of programs. But it also means that we may realize some benefit in 1959-60 from the past few years of relatively high spending.

Of particular notice is the absence of heavy equipment requests from the various departments—a major item in past years. And while some building is proposed, it is much less than has been the case in previous budgets. This doesn't mean the mill levy for the city's operation will go down, although it could.

One major item not included in the capital expenditures is salary adjustments. Something substantial is definitely going to have to be done this year with Police Department salaries and to a lesser degree in many other places. Nor does the city's recreation program seem to have been given any attention in this pre-planning activity.

But this first glance at 1959-60 budget items is still encouraging from a taxpayer's point of view. The procedure involved here, of course, is a new one but one which may prove to be of great benefit. It will permit the city to move forward in a much more intelligent fashion.

The system virtually forces the city to have and at least refer to a comprehensive plan for the future. The City Council is not legally bound to follow the recommendations of the Planning Commission or the comprehensive plan, but no council would want to ignore these things.

It will permit the city to see in advance what its future street pattern will be, for instance, so that money spent today for traffic improvements will not be wasted. The major arterials can be developed as such and in the order of highest need.

The sewer program can be mapped out in advance to give a better degree of stability to land development. By knowing our future needs, we can ascertain what areas can be developed without undue financial hardship in any single year.

The same principle applies to parks. By establishing a goal for ourselves, we have a better understanding of our needs and how they can be met. It is only by working with such advanced planning that we can get the most out of our tax money. If we fail to do this, we will end up in a state of confusion and with a serious loss of money.

Fitting closely in with all of this is the city's zoning program. Good zoning is the keystone to all other development for it is the only way in which the land uses for which we plan today can be sustained. This will be an important area of operation for the new mayor and council.

Still Some Question

The resignation of Penitentiary Warden Joseph Bovey has failed to answer the questions in the mind of the public on this issue. Still left hanging in the air are these two points: 1. Did Bovey resign for the sake of peace and harmony within an important state institution or because Gov. Ralph Brooks had more on him than has been made public? 2. Was Brooks practicing the spoils system when he forced Bovey's resignation?

On the surface, certain things make the governor look good in this case. Bovey's resignation was a surprise and thus raised speculation as to how serious a case Brooks had against him. Counteracting this, however, is the Board of Control's statement that facts presented by Brooks were insufficient to warrant the warden's dismissal.

As to the spoils, it is now anybody's guess. Regardless of what Brooks may or may not have had in mind when he asked Bovey to resign, he is staying a long way from spoils by firmly pointing out that it is the Board's responsibility to name a new warden and their selection should be based on administrative ability and penal training, definitely not on party lines.

One thing again helps Brooks at this point. He forced the resignation while the Board was composed of two Republicans and one Democrat. For spoils, it might have been more logical to wait a few months until the membership on the board changes to two Democrats and one Republican. Of course, those who don't want to give Brooks any credit with this argument could merely shrug it off as a clever maneuver.

The anti-Brooks feeling can also be nurtured by the fact that the public accusations against Bovey were pretty trivial. Containing, perhaps, an element of wrong and a shred of inefficiency but little more, if anything, than couldn't be dug up against almost any state official. Unless Brooks, the Board or Bovey choose to say more about the facts involved than they have to date, there will be no sure answer to the question of who is right and who is wrong.

The Choice Is Theirs

This will be no attempt to tell the Nebraska Legislature how it should vote on the resolution introduced Friday condemning efforts during the past week on the floor of the Legislature to chastise the University of Nebraska and defame certain members of the faculty of the College of Law. But it will be an effort to more clearly define just what it is the Legislature will be voting on.

It is really a rather simple thing but simplicity can too often become covered up and confused by emotions and political prejudice. The issue raised by Sen. Jack Romans of Ord has gone far beyond the partisanship of labor legislation or political parties. It has struck at the very roots of our free society and our respect for the rights and feelings of others.

The state senators will be called upon when they vote on this resolution to decide whether they want every citizen to be at the mercy of ambitious and uninformed public officials or whether the individual is still supreme in this nation. It will be called upon to decide whether we continue to deem a man innocent before he is proven guilty or whether we are ready to pass judgment and deliver a sentence even without a judge, without rules of evidence and without fact.

With their vote, the legislators will decide if a man is free to pursue his own thoughts, to choose his own company and to practice his profession where he sees fit. They will determine the extent to which we are willing to accept one-man rule rather than majority decisions. And they will determine whether we are ready to do away with the governmental system of checks and balances and separation of authorities on which we have always prided ourselves.

These are a few of the things that will be at stake when the resolution comes up for a vote the first of this week. What we, in freedom, have come to depend upon for our individual protection and well-being will be uprooted and discarded if the resolution fails. Adoption of the resolution will give a new and clearer meaning to those principles of democracy and human dignity which all of us should cherish. Each senator has his own choice.

Not On The Brink Yet

Every argument against continuing inflation is a worthy one. But it is more important that the national problem be kept in true perspective. There has been over-emphasis on the danger of the nation's falling gold supply.

The story is simply this: The United States owned $24.4 billions of gold in 1949. Since then the supply has declined until it was $20.5 billions at the end of 1958. On last May 6 it was at $20.26 billion, still going down.

The cause of immediate concern is that 1958 saw $2.3 billion leave the country. This was a substantial amount considering the total outflow the past nine years was $3.9 billion.

The 1958 loss states that the United States bought, invested, loaned and granted more dollars than it took in terms of goods sold or foreign investments received. The foreign nations took the difference in gold to add to their national reserves.

Gold relationships between nations do not remain constant and while it is desirable to have the balance of trade always in one direction toward us there are times when it must and does reverse.

Moreover, a comparison of this country's gold reserves of 1949 and 1958 does not give an altogether true picture. The western bloc of nations have staged economic recovery during that period, evidencing the effectiveness of U.S. foreign aid. It is to be expected that they would have more vigor in foreign trade. Besides our own stimulated defense program has created a greater demand for world goods. It is possible that the outflow of gold is more or less temporary.

Truly it is a phenomenon that demands close watching and remedies later on if they are indicated. But, meantime, it is not to be construed that the U.S. is on the brink of big trouble.

It still has a $20.26 billion gold reserve and needs but $11.7 billion as a necessary reserve against its currency. It is still working on a substantial margin.

Khrushchev Visit After Summit

WASHINGTON — Though President Eisenhower shrugged off a press-conference question regarding a Khrushchev visit to the United States, inside fact is that shortly before Secretary of State Herter left for Geneva, the two men came to a definite agreement on this point. The agreement was two-fold:

1. Barring unforeseen Russian applecart-upsetting at Geneva, there will be a summit conference in the United States.
2. Nikita Khrushchev will be invited to tour the United States—after the conference.

Ike made both decisions with some reluctance, for two reasons. First, John Foster Dulles has long been opposed; second, both the FBI and the secret service are worried over the prospect of protecting Khrushchev from crackpots and assassins in the United States. This is a very real worry, which the President shares. He says it gives him the shivers when he thinks of what might happen to the peace of the world if Khrushchev were injured in the United States.

However, Secretary Herter convinced the President he had no alternative. Since Vice President Nixon is going to Moscow with complete freedom to tour all Russian cities and even return home via Siberia, Herter argued that we will have to give Khrushchev the privilege of either opening the Soviet Trade Fair in New York or coming to a summit conference in the USA.

So if there is reasonable agreement at Geneva, Herter will propose the date of August 1 or August 3 to Khrushchev for a meeting here. Afterward, Mr. K. will be invited to tour the USA. But one condition will be attached—namely, that the tour take place only after the conference. Thus if Mr. K. is too negative at the summit he'll get a sour reaction from the American people down below. Herter hopes this will make for more success at the conference table.

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco is the first American of Greek descent to govern a major American city. Plenty of Italo-Americans, from the late Fiorello La Guardia of New York to Tom D'Alessandro of Baltimore, from Anthony Celebrezze of Cleveland to Louis Mariani of Detroit, have governed big cities. But only one Greek-American.

It now looks as if Mayor Christopher would have another unique distinction—that of inducing the top leaders of the world to hold the summit conference in the city of the Golden Gate.

Europeans Show No War Concern

GENEVA — In this extraordinary spring when supposedly the foreign ministers of Russia and the three western powers are trying to find a way to check the draft toward a nuclear holocaust the face of Europe was never more brilliant, more gay, more outwardly peaceful. It is a paradox certain to puzzle historians of the future if the civilization that we know survives to write the history of this strange era.

From London to Stockholm to Vienna to Rome the report is the same. In weather that is phenomenally beautiful and warm the peoples of Europe are determined to enjoy life.

The traffic jams were never longer nor the shop windows brighter. Reservations, whether for a de luxe hotel or a seat at a sidewalk cafe, are difficult or impossible to come by.

The Europeans have already started on their holiday treks. An estimated four million West Germans visited Italy last year and the total will be much larger this year. The tourist invasion from France and the low countries into Spain is already at a peak.

In a curious way this determined holiday mood becomes a factor in international politics. It is an advertisement written large for all to see that Europe either does not believe in the possibility of war or is determined to go on one last, glorious spending spree before it all comes to an end.

For anyone who has been even briefly in Soviet Russia the contrast to this almost-frantic prosperity could not be greater. The Soviet citizen lives in the austerity of what appears to the Westerner to be a garrison state.

The impression is of every third person in military uniform.

It has often been argued in the past and particularly by John Foster Dulles as secretary of state that the strength of the West is inherent in a high consumer economy. In the number of automobiles, refrigerators and washing machines per person the West measures its power.

In terms of human satisfactions this may be indispensible. But in relation to the Communist challenge, both militarily and economically, it may not be a measure of strength and it was just this doubt that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan raised when he went from Moscow to another following his reconnaissance mission to Moscow. If war actually is threatened over Berlin, he asked then, should we not begin to take some of the steps, such as stopping the tourist invasion and moving military dependents out of forward positions in Germany, that such a threat requires?

He found even in those countries talking the hardest line and intimating that nuclear war might come at the end of May little interest in such suggestions. Tourists, and especially American tourists, are an important element in the balance of payments in many countries.

Certainly in the picture postcard setting of Geneva it is hard to believe that war, even the limited and relatively polite wars of the past, is an imminent threat. With one international organization and one big American corporation after another establishing headquarters here, this has become a boom town bursting out of the pretty confines of the past.

Wonders Of The Universe

There are signs that Russia is having second thoughts about violation of her air space by foreign satellites.

Her first position was that nobody owns outer space and therefore satellites could pass over countries without violating their rights.

As long as she had a monopoly on sputniks, this view was understandable. However, even after the U.S. succeeded in launching a satellite, Russia kept silent for a number of months. Presumably this was because the International Geophysical Year was still on, and satellites were ostensibly for peaceful and scientific purposes.

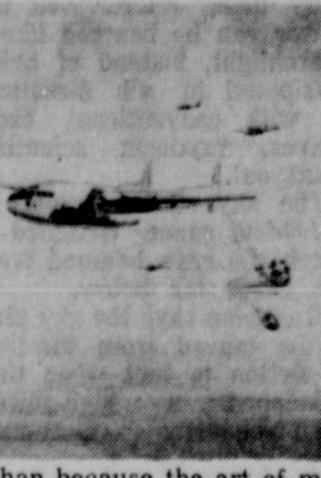

The IGY has ended, however, and just recently a Soviet writer, R. Korovin, writing in the magazine International Affairs, indicated the Russians may change their position. It seems they particularly object to "seeing-eye" satellites passing over their territory.

No doubt the launching of our first Discoverer satellite last February contributed to this anxiety. The first reconnaissance satellite, its military implications were obvious. Once it is fully developed, the Iron Curtain countries will never again be free from scrutiny.

If not shoot down enemy satellites, what can a country do to protect its air space?

Dr. Donald W. Cox, editor of the new magazine, Space, and co-author of the authoritative book, "Spacepower" believes there is need for action by the United Nations if unpleasantness is to be avoided.

He pointed out that the 18 country U.N. committee than because the art of misdirection is not yet sufficiently advanced. Give scientists a few more years, however, and such a possibility cannot be discounted. Our State Department is also concerned about the legalities involved. Proof of this was our decision to change the name of reconnaissance satellites from Sentry to Discoverer. Also, whereas Discoverer II was originally slated to carry a television payload, it was decided instead to send up instruments to study cosmic radiation.

Project Argus, Dr. Cox believes, will be a powerful impetus to forming such a committee.

In the meantime, the U.S. is taking measures to reduce the chance of satellites or payloads falling on foreign soil. This, however, will not quiet the anxieties which nations will experience once reconnaissance satellites pass over them. Only concerted effort by the U.N. can assuage this anxiety.

Traffic Deaths

DAVID CITY, NEB.

I notice that traffic fatalities in Nebraska, which had taken a slight dip earlier in the year, are back up higher than ever. Evidently traffic accidents are like the weather, a popular subject for conversation, but that is about all.

Actually, the responsibility for them rests with two kinds of drivers, the speed maniacs and the road turtles. Some of the speedsters are young drivers whose idea of showing off is to play tricks with 200 horse-power engines, thus needlessly endangering their own lives and the lives of others. Such teenagers lack the judgement to drive, and are not representative of most of our young drivers.

The speed maniacs also include a measurable number of oldsters who mistakenly imagine that, as they grow older, their judgment improves and they can therefore take more chance.

The road turtle plods slowly down the center of the highway, oblivious to those behind and before. One of his favorite stunts, when he needs to turn into a side road, is to move well over toward the left-hand side of the highway, then to come to a stop—being sure that his car is faced squarely toward the middle of the road into which he is driving. He thereby develops a major bottleneck for cars coming from each of four directions.

Increase In Nation's Output Steeper Than Thought

Washington (AP)—The climb in national output in the first 3 months of 1959 was steeper than preliminary figures indicated, the government reported Sunday.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced—rose 14 billion dollars to a record annual rate of 467 billion. This was 2 billion more than the official estimate a month ago.

Gains in payrolls and profits have accompanied the upsurge in market demand, which was based primarily on two factors:

1. Businessmen began building up inventories. Stocks were increased at an annual rate of $5,700,000,000 in the first quarter, after standing unchanged in the last three months of 1958.

Bought More

2. Individual Americans bought more than ever before in history. Spending for personal consumption was up $4,600,000,000 to a record 300% billion.

Although no totals were given because data is incomplete, the report said national income climbed about 10 billion dollars for the third straight quarter, also setting a new record.

The report emphasized that most of the increase in national output during the past year has been real. That is, bigger volume and more to do with it than higher prices.

Output Up 10%

Output has risen 40 billion dollars, or close to 10%, from its recession low in the first quarter of last year. The report said that even after higher price tags are taken into account, the rise amounted to 8%.

Only one segment of the gross national product declined, but the drop was significant. Exports of goods and services, after declining steadily for a year, finally failed to match imports. The deficit was 300 million dollars.

Many businessmen and economists are worried about the exports slump. It is having a measurable downward effect on business and has raised fears that American goods are losing their place in world markets.

The first quarter record for other segments of the national product, all in annual rates, was:

New construction up $1,400,000,000 to 40 billion; investment in plant and equipment up 1½ billion to 24½ billion.

Government purchases of goods and services up $1,400,000,000 to $9,600,000,000. With the rise in federal spending tapering off all but 100 million dollars of the increase was accounted for by state and local governments.

German Ag Visitors 'Interested,' Want To See More Small Farms

By Charles Beal

"Many interesting impressions" was the reaction of two German agriculturists to their tour of American agricultural institutions and state governments, which includes visits to the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Nebraska State Capitol Monday.

They are Dr. Theodor Son-neman, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Federal Ministry of Food Agriculture and Forestry, of Bonn and Edmund F. Rehwinkel, senior president of the German Farmers Association and vice president of the Union Chamber of Commerce. The latter is also a farmer.

Some of the impressions recorded by the Germans were:

The American farmer is progressive-minded and well-informed to current events.

While distribution of burgeoning American surplus grains abroad would be "a good thing" it is difficult to immediately determine the feasibility of such a move.

More Farms

They were rather disappointed that they were able to see so few small farms, such as in Nebraska, and that a large part of their time was spent with activity other than inspection of farms.

Accompanying Sonneman and Rehwinkel are Dr. Wilhelm Schoel, agricultural secretary of the German Embassy in Washington, D.C., and Ernest Koenig, agricultural economist and interpreter with the United States Department of Agriculture.

ROA vice-presidents, chosen by congressional districts, were Cmdr. Millard Bennett of Lincoln, first; Lt. Col. Richard Williams of Omaha, second; Lt. Col. Ora C. Schreiner of Norfolk, third, and Lt. Col. Walter Snyder of Grand Island, fourth.

Other ROA officers include: Lt. Col. Jack D. Anderson of Lincoln, national executive councilman; Col. T. T. Harris of Omaha, surgeon; Capt. John E. Murphy of Omaha, judge advocate; Capt. J. P. Holman of Lincoln, historian, and Maj. C. G. Kuhn of Lincoln, chaplain.

The auxiliary also elected: Mrs. Joseph Dresselhaus of Lincoln, vice-president; Mrs. Marty Rasmussen of Omaha, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. T. T. Harris of Omaha, historian, and Mrs. Jack D. Anderson of Lincoln, chaplain.

The principal convention speaker was Brig. Gen. Graydon C. Essman of Washington, head of the U.S. Army's chemical research corps.

New Dog Catcher Added To Block Canine Capers

Attention, dogs! Your old must have a current license. The fee is $3 for males and spays and $5 for females.

The Humane Society now has two radio-equipped trucks on the streets and all dogs running loose or unlicensed will be picked up and impounded.

Supt. Harold Deacon said the second truck was added with the approval of the City Council for stricter enforcement of city animal ordinances.

Deacon expected the number of complaints on loose dogs to increase now that the gardening season is here.

He also noted that some owners allow their dogs to run loose in early morning and late evening hours. Enforcement action is being taken during these hours, he warned.

A $5 pound fee must be paid before dogs picked up by the animal shelter will be returned to their owners.

Officials said charges would be filed against repeat offenders under the city's dog ordinance.

Beginning June 1, officials said, owners of unlicensed dogs will also face court action.

The Mayor's Lady

A warm smile, eyes that really twinkle, a serene face framed by a cap of gray hair in a pixie cut—first and lasting impressions of the gracious and capable wife of Lincoln's new mayor who will be inaugurated today, Mrs. Pat Boyles, or as she is known to her friends, "Tuck" Boyles.

The former Florence Tucker of Grand Island attended Grand Island College before entering the University of Nebraska. In 1926, she was graduated with a degree in Spanish but it was her minor science which was to determine her career. After a year of graduate study she became the first laboratory technician at the then brand new Bryan Memorial Hospital.

The lady hastens to add, however, that a greener lab technician could never be found as her one previous trip to a hospital had been to have her tonsils removed.

Now chief medical technician, Mrs. Boyles' pride is in the Bryan Hospital School of Medical Technology, which was nationally accredited in 1935. Included in the picture is her map pin-pointed with the locations of almost 90 of the school's graduates with whom she corresponds regularly.

Office hours over, the lady easily steps into her role as a housewife. A hobby that both Mr. and Mrs. Boyles enjoy is gardening and one glance at the beautiful yard leads you to suspect that green thumbs run in the family. Bridge is a favorite form of relaxation, and a most important time-consumer for the family is the spoiled child, "Red"—a 16-year-old Cocker Spaniel.

As to the world of sports, Mrs. Boyles admits to being strictly a spectator with the exception of her weakness, fishing, on which she waxes most poetic. One might imagine that after a particular fishing trip last year when she broke her ankle in two places due to over-enthusiasm on a steep river bank

NEWS OF SUBURBIA

COTNER TERRACE

The newest member of the younger generation in Cotner Terrace this morning is Dee Marie Woods, who made her premier appearance on Tuesday, May 12 at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Among Dee's most ardent admirers are her sisters, Denise Nathelle, who is three years-old, and Danielle Anne, who is 20 months-old. The young lady's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. H. Wayne Draper, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Woods.

Out-of-town guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Dean last week were Mr. Dean's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Dean and their children, Phyllis, Cheryl, and Steve, of Oxford. While Dr. Dean attended a medical convention in Omaha Mrs. Dean and her children visited in Cotner Terrace.

Spending last week-end in Lockwood, Mo., were Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Darabos Jr. and their daughter, Leeann, who were guests at the home of Mrs. Darabos' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Griffiths.

And more news from the Darabos family tells us that

Had Morning Wedding

MRS. ROBERT A. PADRONS

The wedding of Miss Madeleine Mary Meyer and Robert A. Padronos of Owatonna, Minn., took place Saturday morning, May 16, at St. Mary's Cathedral. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. John Flynn.

As the matron of honor, Mrs. Elmo G. Schmitt wore a frock of parchment silk in pastel orchid fashioned in the day-time length. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Paul Philips and Mrs. Robert Mallory, were frocked identically in white cotton lace over blue taffeta. Miss Carol Ann Meyer of Beatrice and Miss Mary Beth Neha were the flower girls, and the ringbearer was Johnny Mike Meyer.

Paul Meyer, brother of the bride, served as best man, and seating the guests were Jack Cunningham and Pete Matthews.

Given in marriage by her brother, Howard Meyer of Worland, Wyo., the bride chose for her wedding a gown of white Chantilly lace and silk taffeta. Long, taffeta sleeves and a mandarin neckline accented the bodice of sequin-dotted lace.

One of the fun affairs of the week end was the Trend Dancing Club's dinner dance they now have as their their house guest Mrs. Darabos' mother, Mrs. Gertrude Liss of Central City, S.D.

A hostess at her home on Thursday evening will be Mrs. Gordon Ware who will entertain at a dessert for the members of her neighborhood bridge group.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Karr entertained at their home on Saturday evening when they had as their dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Victor Obermueller and their daughter, Debra.

A birthday celebrant in Cotner Terrace on Thursday afternoon was Douglas Hanneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hanneman, who celebrated his sixth birthday with a party at his home. A large Humpty-Dumpty cake was the center of attraction at the party and the children ate cupcakes which were decorated with clowns and umbrellas.

Joining the fun were Cindy Smith, Mark Heiliger, Nancy and Bobby Kraft, Larry Bulling, David Watermeier, David and Tommy Wolfe, Sherry Hegener, Jimmie Green, Dickie Fisher, Craig Connally, Dick Brown, and Shelly Everett.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

It is our pleasure this morning to welcome to Northeast Heights Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Giles. The Giles moved into their new home at 2929 N. 64 last Saturday from 5917 Havelock.

Out-of-town guests visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mason last Sunday were Mrs. Edna Jensen, Mrs. Lemoine Bergman and her daughter, Cheri, all of Holdrege.

Arriving in the suburb last Tuesday was Mrs. Harold Staber's mother, Mrs. John F. Hoffman of Sutton. Mrs. Hoffman came for the Mother-Daughter Banquet which was held last Monday evening at the Havelock Christian Church.

MRS. GERALD JOHNS

The chancel of Frieden's Lutheran Church was appointed with lighted white candles and lemon leaf foliage on Sunday afternoon, May 17, for the marriage of Miss Barbara McMillen, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Kimmel, to Gerald Johns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Johns. The ceremony was solemnized at 4 o'clock by Dr. Herman Goede.

As the matron of honor, Mrs. Tracy Clark of Manhattan, Kan., wore a ballerina frock of white Chantilly lace over jonquil yellow taffeta, widely sashed with the silk. Costumed identically in lilac and mint green were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Frank Sacridor of Omaha, and Mrs. Robert Reischneider. The attendants carried bouquets of daisies and wore bandeaux of the blossoms in their hair. Miss Judy DeLand and Miss Linda DeLand lighted the candles, and Kathy Reischneider was the flower girl.

Reuben Keller served as best man, and seating the guests were Frank Sacridor, Omaha, and Wesley George. Tracy Clark, Jr., was the ringbearer.

The bride's gown was

Mrs. Councilwoman

for her husband, preparing breakfast, and assisting Dr. Boosalis (a University of Nebraska faculty member) and their daughter off for classes and school while the telephone jangles incessantly.

It's not that Mrs. Michael Boosalis is not organized—far from it—it's just that the telephone has assumed a new importance in the Boosalis household, so much so that Lincoln's city councilwoman plans to have a separate phone installed to handle the rush of calls.

A graduate of the University of Minnesota with a major in political science, Mrs. Boosalis is accustomed to juggling a career with homemaking, and the shortcuts in home management and the need for organizing her day which she learned while Dr. Boosalis was studying for his Ph. D. Degree, will be put to good use as she takes on her new career in public life.

Enthusiasm should be the lady's middle name and it was her interest in Lincoln's city government which she acquired as president of the Lincoln League of Women Voters during that organization's recent study of the city charter that led to her candidacy for the city council.

But back to her hats—she has 25 of them, all sizes and shapes, some fancy, some tailored, some with veils and others with bows. But the Boosalis chapeaux are the least expensive items in her wardrobe as she makes them herself, with imagination and whimsy, for the fun of it.

The attractiveness and comfort of the Boosalis home at 1932 So. 48th is a result of the family's imagination, taste and love of "putting on." Both Dr. and Mrs. Boosalis are handy with a saw and paintbrush, and blending companionably with their antique furniture and family heirlooms are pieces which are pure "Boosalis"—such as the master bedroom's low-dressing table-chest, lacquered a dull black and topped by a long mirror which once was a dining room buffet circa 1925.

Was Hostess

Mrs. Fred Hromas was hostess recently to the members of the Northeast Nabor Club. The program featured a talk, "Personality and Charm."

In June, the group will hold a family picnic at Peter Pan Park.

Bonus For Certified Wheat Seen

An excellent wheat crop forecast of 91 million bushels for Nebraska means that many growers can get extra dividends if they certify wheat in 1959.

That goes for wheat growers throughout Nebraska since excellent moisture and growing conditions favor wheat growth in most areas.

Typical growers who are planning to certify their wheat and oats fields in 1959 are Walter and Carl Rieschick near Falls City who have literally grown up in the certified seed business.

Production of certified small grain seed has been a starting day for field inspections in years, Mills points out.

All fields for certification must be inspected by representatives of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association before harvesting to check varietal purity of the crop and presence of noxious weeds or plant diseases.

Mills says applications for certification of other crops in Nebraska are due on these dates:

June 20 — hybrid corn, safflower.

July 10 — all sorghums, red clover, second crop alfalfa seed.

August 1 — warm season grasses, soybeans, lespedeza, sudan grass, millet, and third crop alfalfa.

Handbooks outlining the requirements for producing certified seed are available from the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association, University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, Lincoln.

Segrist Honored On 80th Birthday

Humboldt, Neb.—One of the city's most prominent sportsmen, George Segrist, was honored Sunday with a special 80th birthday celebration held in the recreation park.

Segrist, long interested in developing the park and fishing areas in the area, has served as park supervisor for the past few years.

He financed many recent improvements by securing donations from local businessmen. They include graveling of roads, lake stocking, tree planting and sponsoring an annual fishing contest.

Human Skeleton Still A Mystery

Alma, Neb. — Harlan County Attorney Robert McElveen and Sheriff Ted Baker are investigating the case of a portion of a skeleton found near Orleans which may be the remains of a victim of the 1935 Republican River flood.

McElveen said the remains appear to be those of a white man, rather than an Indian. He said, however, that identification will probably be impossible, since no identifying data was found on or near the bones.

The partial skeleton was found by a farmer clearing trees and leveling river bottom land about 3 miles northwest of Orleans. It was a silted area about 4 or 5 feet deep and was the location of the river at about that time.

The Republican River flood of late May of 1935 was the worst ever recorded in the region, claiming 105 known lives. Many bodies were never found.

The literary life is exhausting, believe me. My publisher is in constant touch with me. Taking my temperature and fluffing up the pillows.

"Good news!" he cried yesterday on the long-distance phone. "You are going into Macy's window!"

"To pay off an election bet?" I asked.

"To sell books," he said. "It is a wonderful opportunity."

Later he called back to say I had been canceled out of the window.

"They need it for refrigerators. But we have done even better. You are booked into the luggage department—everybody who buys a valise is exposed to your book."

A book author is fairly nervous. Like an expectant mother, he hardly knows what to expect.

I even spent a little money on long-distance calls myself. "Of course," cried the secretary. "You're the clever person who wrote 'Bawds and Broadswords.' A wonderful grasp of the Elizabethan period . . ."

"No, ma'am. I am the person who is writing his memoirs on snooker pool—'Eight Balls in the Side Pocket.'"

"Surely," she said. "How stupid of me. Mr. Fizz will be so sorry to have missed your call. Would you like to speak to Mr. Catwhistle?"

"Who is Mr. Catwhistle?"

"One of our most brilliant finds. He is a Yale student working here during his vacation. We expect great things from young Catwhistle."

"Where is Publisher Fizz?" I said unhappily.

Ah, Fizz. Mr. Fizz was in Florida. Researching some novel writer, who would make Faulkner look like a bum.

"We all have great confidence in your book," she said brightly. "Call us ANYTIME."

Well, we are now close to publication date. And Fizz cannot be more attentive.

As I have long suspected, publishers are not book men. They are window men. What can you put in a window, that is the kind of problem that makes their eyes light up.

"I want you to know," said Fizz impressively, "that any window you get into, you are to get top billing. Also you are to get the sunny half. The potato peeler people had not only grabbed the sunny half, they had you where you could only be seen from one corner. Rascals," said Fizz. "We stopped that."

"Will the book be printed soon?" I asked timidly.

"Oh, I imagine it will be out any day," he said carelessly. "We usually do print, you know. Remember," said Fizz, "do not sign up for any

"What shall I do if I get in a window?" I asked.

"You sign books, of course," he said. "We had an offer from one department store for a very good window. But I found out in the nick of time you were going in with a home economist who was demonstrating a new potato peeler. Naturally we turned it down."

"When the mannequin does not answer, they think they are being high-hatted and go away in a huff."

"Yes, sir," I said. "Sunny windows. No mannequins."

"That's the spirit," said Fizz heartily. I think so, too. McNaught Syndicate Inc.

When inflation tips the scale*you pay for more than you get*Let's not fool ourselves about this. Inflation hurts everyone.

Families who have to live on fixed incomes suffer. Their dollars won't buy as much as before.

People who salt away some of their pay in savings suffer.

Men and women on salaries and wages also suffer. Sure, their pay may be rising. But wages don't always rise at the same rate as prices.

In the end, everyone pays the price of inflation.

You may think prices are bad enough today. But how can we keep the cost of living from getting completely out of hand?

There is a way we can stop further inflation

As a first step, all of us can support every reasonable move to hold down government spending—federal, state and local.

Pressing for more and more spending on new projects at a time when we're already committed to a huge defense budget can lead only two ways. To higher taxes . . . or to more and more inflation. We can't get away from paying, one way or the other.

Many congressmen are already doing whatever they can to postpone new services, however desirable, until we can better afford them. You can assist by giving your representative the support he needs to make sure that the Government starts living within its income again.

That will strike a mighty blow against inflation and the rising prices it produces.

It will strike a blow for a stronger America, too, because millions of people will be encouraged to add to their savings.

Not only will a growing nest egg bring a comfortable feeling of independence and security. Those savings, as they are invested, will provide the capital needed for America's future growth.

This is the surest way to the most prosperous years you or America have ever known—a way that begins by all of us insisting on having a stable dollar.

Brought to you in the interest of every American who is concerned with preserving the value of the dollar.

Club Tournaments Keep City Links Busy; Sectional USGA Qualifying Today

Weekend club tournaments were warmer than the weather prevailing around the Lincoln fairways Saturday and Sunday as the local golfing set continued tune-ups for the long, hot summer.

Features were a Golf Breakfast low net 4-some tourney at Lincoln Country Club, the regular weekend club Sweepstakes at Hillcrest Country Club and Bethany Lions Club tournament at Pioneers Golf Course.

Tie For Lead

Two 4-somes both came in with best-ball net totals of 59 for top honors at LCC. The groups consisted of Gordie Jenkins, Charlie Wright, Dr. Quentin Bradley and Jim Ebel in one 4-some and Don Pegler Jr., Dr. J. M. Neely, Dr. M. C. Wieland and Gene Reece and Taylor Green in the other.

No less than 4 groups were tied for 3rd with net totals of 60. The groups: Floyd Chance, Bill Gold, Glenn Yaussi, Jack Young; Jerry Hunt, Norm Shaw, Jerry Desmond, Bill Browne; Charles White, Walter Black, Jack Hoyt, Taylor Greer; Bob Reynolds, Dr. F. A. Pierson, Dr. E. E. Angle, Dick Chapin.

Stan Stroh held the limelight at Hillcrest both Saturday and Sunday while leading the pack in the club's Sweepstakes. He fired a 69 Saturday and came back with 68 Sunday.

Loren Andrews and Ed Smith tied for runnerup honors Saturday with scores of 70 apiece, while Gene Chadwell and Burt Ehrmann were in 4th place at 72. Charlie Bates' 69 was good for second.

Snead Wraps Up Own Golf Crown

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. (AP)—Sam Snead wrapped up his own golf tournament title Sunday by finishing with a 7-under-par 63 for a 259 total that equalled the meet's record low score set by Ben Hogan in 1950.

In the process of taking the $2,300 first prize for the 5th time out of 12 tourneys on his home course, Snead's last 36-hole score of 122 was 4 below the PGA competitive record. His 59 Saturday was shot only once before in competition.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of St. Louis, Mo. was still playing the course when Snead finished. However, the runnerup after 3 rounds needed an unheard of tie to Snead.

Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y. held second place with a final round 65 to a 270 total.

Four In Battle For NAIA Title

Hastings—Hastings College, Concordia, Wayne State and Nebraska Wesleyan will battle here today for the NAIA District 11 baseball crown.

Concordia meets Nebraska College Baseball Conference leader Wayne in the first game at 1 p.m. Nebraska Wesleyan meets Hastings at 3 p.m., with winners of the two games paired under the lights at 7:30.

Winner of the one-day eliminations earns a weekend trip to Omaha for the Area 3 NAIA tournament.

Omaha Softball 9 Hits Pen Pirates

Pen Pirates' Meehan homered in the first inning with a mate aboard, but Dorcas Bar of Omaha came back to whip the State Penitentiary club 8-2 in a softball game Sunday.

State Treasurer Richard R. Larsen was umpire for the tilt, the season opener for the Pirates.

Dorcas Bar . . . . . 300 221 10—6 6 5 Pen Pirates . . . . . 200 000 0—2 5 6 Black and Gass; Kerns, Walking Bull and Hatfield.

Lincolnites Lose

Omaha (AP)—Joe Patterson socked two doubles and 3 singles Sunday as the Offutt Air Force Base 9 beat the Lincoln Mooses 14-6.

Lincoln . . . . . 601 300 110—6 6 5 Offutt . . . . . 310 025—14 17 4 Stevens, Curtiss (G) and Bayless, Chiarato and Strange.

Arizona, Tech To Omaha Tournament

New York, (AP)—Tourney perennial Arizona and newcomer Georgia Tech are the first two teams to qualify for the national collegiate (College World Series) baseball tournament, at Omaha, the NCAA announced.

ond place Sunday, just one stroke better than a 70 compiled by Ralph Tyler Jr. for 3rd.

Links Are Crowded

Club pros and operators at Pioneers Golf Course, Park Valley Golf Links and Thunder Ridge Golf Links all reported brisk activity for the weekend.

Gary Shields, son of Operator G. L. Shields at Park Valley, copped the championship flight during the Bethany Lions tournament Sunday, firing a one-over-par 34. Flight winners were Chick Knight, Kenny McCartney and Bob Lusher. Milton Wuster's 34 was another standout score at the course Sunday.

Two rounds of 18 holes each are slated to begin at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Only other tourney action Sunday consisted of a Mixed Scotch 4-some at Hillcrest. Results:

Jules Van Dersarl, a member of the state Class B champion Lincoln Plus X High School golf team, came in with rounds of 37-32-69 at Par-34 Thunder-Ridge Sunday. Dale Hansen carded a 36 over the same layout.

Aaron's Poke Sends Braves Winging Past Dodgers, 8-3

Los Angeles (AP)—Henry Aaron broke a 2-2 tie with his 11th homer and extended his hitting streak to 21 games Sunday as Milwaukee dealt the declining Los Angeles Dodgers their 4th straight loss. The score was 8-3.

A crowd of 49,347, soaking in a mild sun, saw right-hander Lew Burdette work calmly through a couple of troubled moments and score his 6th victory. Burdette, who has lost twice, gave up 8 hits in going the distance.

Don Drysdale, the Dodgers' starter, was touched for 5 runs and took the loss, his 4th against 3 victories. Drysdale had beaten the Braves 8 straight times and had lost them only once previously in his career.

Aaron belted his 3rd homer of the two-game series over the left field screen with Eddie Mathews aboard in the 5th, sending the Braves ahead 4-2. Hank went two for 4 Sunday and finished with a .484 batting average. He has had two or more hits in his last 8 games.

Milwaukee's Del Crandall also hit a home run, his 5th, and got 3 singles, going 4 for 5.

Don Demeter hit his 9th homer for Los Angeles and Charlie Neal got his 3rd. Both came with the bases empty.

Burdette was making his 200th National League start. He now has 7 complete games this season, the most in the league.

The Dodgers, who slipped back to 3rd place Saturday, now trail the first place Braves by 3 and one-half games.

Indianapolis Race Pilot Unser Dies

Result Of Burns

Indianapolis (UPI) — Race driver Jerry Unser died Sunday of burns and injuries suffered May 2 in a crash at the Indianapolis Speedway as he practiced for the 1959 Memorial Day 500-mile speed classic. Unser sustained first degree burns over 35 per cent of his body when his roadster crashed and burst into flames on the northwest turn of the speedway. He had been in a coma for several days before death.

a 6-run assault on Sturdivant and Duke Maas.

Kansas City added two runs, off Johnny Kucks, in the 7th, and ended its scoring in the 8th when Hadley stroked a two-run homer, off the same Kucks.

The Yankees, within 3 outs of getting shut out in the first game, finally go to Bud Daley in the 9th and drove the left-hander out with a barrage of base hits. Trailing 2-0 with only 3 hits up to the 9th, the Yankees scored 3 times to pull the game out of the fire.

Omaha Is Title At Nebraska City

Lincoln Star Special
Nebraska City—Dean Wilson of Omaha copped medalist honors with 66 and won the Championship flight with a 27-hole total of 101 here Sunday during the 7th annual Early Bird Open golf tournament at Steinhart Park Golf Course.

Larry Romjue of the University of Nebraska golf team was second with 106, and Ed Printz of Omaha 3rd at 107.

Lew Sheary of Waverly and Nebraska Wesleyan won a sudden-death playoff for the Flight One championship. Fred Burgi of Omaha and Bob Dahms of Seward were other flight winners.

Ex-Indianapolis King Retires From Big Race

Indianapolis (UPI) — Johnny Parsons of Van Nuys, Calif., winner of the 1950 Memorial Day Auto Race, Sunday announced his retirement from competition at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

He had hoped to make his second try for the Speedway crown this year. Last year, as a rookie, he was involved in the spectacular first lap, multiple car crash in which Pat O'Connor was killed. Unser's auto then went over a wall.

Unser, the 1957 National Stock Car Champion, also was involved in another crack-up only last month at the International Speedway, Daytona, Fla., but he walked away unharmed.

Although a rookie in the 1958 "500," Unser had been racing for 10 years. He was a member of a well-known family prominent for years in the Pike's Peak Climb at Colorado Springs, Colo., where he was born.

NIBL Adds Team
Denver (P)—The National Industrial Basketball League (AAU) added its 9th team, awarding a franchise to the Technical Tape Corp. of New Rochelle, N. Y.

The New York team will be coached by Stan Stutz, former official of the National Basketball Assn. It replaced the MacDonald Scots team of Lake Charles, La., awarded a franchise in March.

Parsons, who fought his car back under control Saturday after a short skid, said he will continue to race midgets and stock cars.

Senators Gloomy About Wheat Program Chance

June 1 Deadline Approaches

Washington (P)—Senate experts on farm legislation are gloomy about prospects for a new wheat program to meet President Eisenhower's blueprint.

Working against a June 1 deadline, the Senate Agriculture Committee approved a bill 8-1 that goes part way in revising present price supports downward.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), chairman of this group, said in an interview that he agreed with Eisenhower that something should be done about wheat.

"I've been saying the same thing for three months," Ellender added.

"Our committee bill is some improvement over present law," he said, "but whether it will have the blessing of the White House is a question."

Eisenhower in a message to Congress last week, called the present wheat control and price support program a failure.

Unless something is done to halt the pileup of surpluses under government funds, the President said the entire farm price support program would "crash" of its own weight.

The Senate committee bill would retain a present national wheat allotment of 55 million acres, lower supports from 75 to 65 per cent or parity for growers who complied with allotments, raise them to 80 per cent for growers who reduced planting 20 per cent, and tighten penalties for excess production.

"I'm not satisfied with the bill," Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) said in a separate interview. "I voted to send it on to the Senate to get something on the floor."

Doubts Effectiveness

"I doubt that it would reduce production or the surplus," he added.

The government now has some 3½ billion dollars invested in a surplus expected to reach 1½ billion bushels soon, or more than twice the annual domestic wheat needs.

Sen. Milton Young (R-N.D.), wheat farmer who often disagrees with Republican farm programs, cast the opposing vote in the Senate committee.

"There are some good provisions in the bill but I could not support a program that retains controls and lowers supports for wheat growers," he said. "After all corn farmers get a 65 per cent support without any restrictions."

"The chances of getting any wheat legislation now are very slim," he added.

The House Agriculture Committee plans to meet Monday in hopes of completing action on a wheat bill differing from both the Senate bill and administration request.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson must announce a new wheat program by June 1, an extension from a May 15 deadline approved by Congress and the President.

Pioneers Add A Log To The Fire

Robbie Roberts of Eugene, Ore., adds a log to the fire as members of the Oregon-bound centennial wagon train camp for the night near North Platte. The mule-drawn caravan was taking a weekend rest in its 100-day trek along the Overland and Oregon Trails, used by Americans migrating across the country a century ago.

Oregon Or Bust, Say 'Pioneers'

North Platte (P)—The hearty modern-day pioneers, about one-third of the way along on their 100-day trek to Oregon for that state's centennial, are sure they're going to finish the trip.

The mule-drawn centennial wagon train party paused to rest at a campsite seven miles west of North Platte on the old Oregon Trail, Hwy. 30, for the weekend.

A spokesman said there already is about $40,000 invested

"I wouldn't any more go back home without finishing this trip than anything," said George McUne of Medford, Ore.

"If anything happened to the caravan, I guess I would just keep on going by myself," he continued. "There are a lot of others that feel the same way."

The wagon train started from Independence, Mo., a month ago, bound for Independence, Ore. The 21-member party is following the Overland and Oregon Trails as did their forefathers.

The men in the party are quick to admit they have advantages the real pioneers didn't have—like a huge semi-trailer to haul equipment and a motorized cook shack.

But, they point out that the men and women who covered the route 100 years ago, didn't have to contend with highway traffic.

The wagon train party, as it has each weekend on the road, rested Sunday. The North Platte Ministerial Assn. conducted religious services, which were attended by the public. The train pushes westward again Monday.

Automation Called Key To Economic Victory Over Reds

Washington (P) — Automation is the key to victory in the economic race with communism, the National Planning Assn. said Sunday, but it can bring problems along with its greater productivity.

A new NPA report called for a comprehensive inquiry into the economic and social effects of automation. Lack of knowledge of its impact can be "a very dangerous situation for the nation," the study said.

The report was prepared for the privately supported research and planning association by John Diebold, management consultant on automation and computer technology.

More Like Glacier

Automation may move through the economy more like a glacier than a flood, Diebold said, but could come so suddenly in some areas and industries as to create unemployment problems.

Some experts, he noted, believe that "not only individuals but entire communities may be bypassed" if automation makes it cheaper for companies to build new plants than to remodel old ones.

"Since the need for labor will not be so great, these plants can move away from areas where the labor supply is large; and as nuclear power develops they will no longer be tied to existing power sources," he said.

May Need Help

"Whole communities may need assistance if their inhabitants are not to become victims of the age of automation."

The study said unemployment figures indicate that no great numbers of workers so far has been left jobless by machines and automated processes, but noted that considerable dislocation and job shifting may have occurred.

"In the process of making the shifts," the report said,

"these workers may lose their seniority rights, insurance, pensions and other benefits, and may have had to settle for a less congenial job at lower wages as well."

But the NPA study drew the conclusion that automation is needed "as the key to the survival of our way of life." It went on:

All-Out Effort

The constantly growing strength of the communist countries will require us to work at peak efficiency with all the effort that we can muster in order to stay ahead in the race."

The report offered these forecasts on the trends and problems of automation:

More leisure may bring unfavorable effects along with the next few years automation will have its greatest impact not in factories but in offices. "Computers in an office," it said, "are going to be like bulldozers in the construction industry."

Because jobs under automation demand higher skills, there will be a distinct upgrading of jobs. But those workers who can not cope with greater responsibility may be downgraded instead.

3-Month Vacation

"The 3-day weekend, or the 3-month vacation . . . may be a reality within the next decade."

More leisure may bring unfavorable effects along with the benefits. It might tend to increase a man's insecurity, "isolate him psychologically, create problems which he is unprepared to face and drive him to socially harmful actions."

Workers will have to be re-

trained for the new technology. Studies should now be made to determine whether the retraining should be a responsibility of the community, the company or the individual."

HE WAS IN MY HOUSE IN A PLASTIC BAG WHEN THE PLACE CAUGHT FIRE. HOW DID HE GET HERE?

THE FIRE'S HEAT MUST HAVE MELTED THE PLASTIC BAG. HE SLITHERED INTO THE WATER-FILLED BASEMENT.

AND SOMEHOW THE STORM BLEW HIM OUT THIS VENTILATOR.

WH-WH-WH-THAT MEANS THIS VENTILATOR MUST LEAD TO OUR BASEMENT WHERE OUR $1,736,427.80 IS!
